DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 15 is objected to because of the following informalities:

On line 10, it appears that the phrase "open stub capacitance connected to the input line" should read as --open stub capacitance connected to the output line-- since Figs. 6-7 and 9 show that the stub capacitance is connected to the output line when the MIM capacitance is connected to the output.

Similarly, on line 13, the phrase "input capacitance" should be changed to --output capacitance--.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 15-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Hosoya.

Hosoya (Fig. 16) teaches an MMIC circuit including: a transistor (1) having and a MIM capacitor (18) (i.e. metal insulator metal) connected to the output line of the transistor, and a bias circuit (17) is connected in parallel to the MIM Capacitor (Claim 16), and an open stub capacitance (12) is provided for matching the impedance. Furthermore, it is an inherent property that the capacitance of a MIM changes inversely with the thickness of its insulating film. Also, when one is describing impedance matching it is understood that all possible impedance mismatches are considered and thus impedance variations in the output capacitance of the transistor and the MIM capacitor due to variations in the thickness of the insulating film would be part of the impedance matching (i.e. compensated for).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hosoya in view of Okada.

Hosoya teaches an MMIC with output matching as described above. However, Hosoya does not also explicitly teach an input matching circuit.

Okada (Fig. 19, along with Figs. 6B and 13B) teaches using similar matching circuits for both the input and output of a transistor (see Col. 13, lines 10-15).

It would have been considered obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have included similar matching circuits (such as taught by Okada) for the input and output of the Hosoya circuit such that both the input and output have stub matching circuits, because it would have provided the advantageous benefit of impedance matching not only the output but also the input, thereby suggesting the obviousness of such a modification.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 13-16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
